STIPULATION CONCERNING ACCUSED PRODUCTS

Plaintiff Telcordia Technologies, Inc. ("Telcordia") and Defendant Cisco Systems, Inc. ("Cisco"), by and through their respective counsel of record, hereby stipulate as follows:

WHEREAS, on January 5, 2006, the Court ordered the parties to meet and confer about a compromise schedule pursuant to which Telcordia could add newly accused claims (i.e., the means-plus-function claims it asserted for the first time in November 2005) if it substantially reduced its list of newly accused products (i.e., products accused for the first time in December 2005);

WHEREAS, on February 27, 2006, the Court held a hearing concerning the accused products in this case;

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED:

1. Pursuant to the Court's order, Telcordia has dropped its infringement allegations as to the following Cisco products:

3. Telcordia believes that its interrogatory answers made it clear that where it identified products at the series level, it intended to encompass all products within each identified series. Accordingly, Telcordia believes that it adequately identified accused Cisco products at the series level and that where it identified specific products within a series, the identified products must be considered examples of the accused products within the series and not exhaustive of them. Similarly, Telcordia believes that in identifying products by product number, it intended to encompass all products that have the same number, whether or not there may be an additional identifier. Cisco believes that the products identified by Telcordia are the products accused of infringement and that additional products may not be accused simply because they fall within the same series. Notwithstanding Telcordia's beliefs, the Court has held: (a) the addition of further products—whether or not they fall within a series for which other products have previously been accused—to the list in paragraph 2 above is subject to a good cause showing by Telcordia, Feb. 27, 2006, Hearing Tr. at 7, 12-13; and (b) Telcordia may ask questions in further discovery about other Cisco products that are not on the list in paragraph 2 above consistent with the Court's ruling at the February 27, 2006 Hearing, Feb. 27, 2006 Hearing Tr. at 12-13, 16.

4. Telcordia further believes that it has dropped its infringement allegations as to the products noted in paragraph 1 without prejudice to (a) its challenging on appeal the Court's order that it reduce its list of newly accused products, or (b) its bringing a separate action directed to those products at a later time. Cisco disagrees with Telcordia's description of the Court's Order and Telcordia's position.
